OUR BANKING FACILITIES.—We very often hear complaints respecting the bank facilities of the city. Those who complain are doubtless not aware that the actual capital which the present banks are using is very small, and that they are usual before the war, when Charleston had fourteen or fifteen millions of banking capital. We are pleased to learn, however, that arrange-nents have been made by the First National Bank to increase its capital stock, and that those who desire can purchase stock by applying to the President of the Bank, any time before the first of February. From all we know, no better investment could be made, as the bank has declared splendid dividends; and it is most probable that, with an increased capital, it would pay its stockholders a very admirable interest upon their investments.

THE TROUBLES NEAR SAVANNAH.

We deeply regret the difficulty that has arise on Back River, in Beaufort District, in this State, opposite Savannah, between the negroes and the U. S. troops. These freedmon were unwilling to yield peaceable possession of a plantation (known as the Delta plantation) to the rightful owner. They claimed a right to the land, not because they had any title or had given any consideration for the same, but because one Alpeora Bradley, a colored lawyer, hailing from New York and Boston, had told them that he would secure them possessory titles. Gen. Scorr, upon application, sent first a small squad of soldiers, afterwards a Lieutenant and fifty men; but the entire negro population of the island being in open revolt, the Lieutenant in command did not deem it prudent, under the instructions he had, to attempt to carry out orders. Gen. Scorr, on being informed of the facts, himself repaired to the scene; but we have had no reliable information in the matter later than what is contained in last Monday's Savannah

Although this occurrence is much to be regrotted, there is nothing remarkable about it. The two races, the whites and the blacks, have long lived here together in peace and perfect good feeling. But that was before the negro was taught to look with suspicion upon his former master. With the society. The income of the church for the en- the thousands of cmissaries, missionaries and and credulous minds of the negroes, nothing can be expected but just such antagonisms of races. We have hitherto been singularly exempt from them

We hope no false and garbled accounts of this emeute will go North. Gen. Scorr must be deemed an impartial witness, and we are perfectly willing to take his version of the affair. Our social and political condition at present is one of peculiar sion of the Doan and Chapter, been placed in West- delicacy, and collisions between the two races may minster Abbey by his sister, Lady TREVELVAN. It | be looked for at any time; and if our Northern coemporaries will only deal fairly by us, and not wilfully misropresent the condition of things, we can have no cause of complaint. The angels are not all black, nor the demons all white. Hear both sides, and condomn neither unheard.

THE CONDITION OF THE COUNTRY.

Liberal government in this country was on its trial in 1861, and notwithstanding the utmost efforts of its friends to defend, to rescue and to Lafourche has been completed to the satisfaction save it, it fell in the severe ordeal. Civil Liberty and Self-Government were found a failure. They were weighed in the balances and found wanting. Liberty died amid the shouts and insane shricks of her worshippers. This is entirely in accordance with the predictions of the great founders and framers of our Government, and all the true statesmen who have since adorned the pages of American history. Yet the boast, of all others most common, in the Northern publications of the past two years, is that the United States, after undergoing a long and gigantic struggle for self-preservation and territorial integrity, has come forth triumphant, bidding defiance to "traitors" within and focs without. " It a word is said of the subversion of all, the mere mention of which once swelled the heart of every American with pride. If you as much as name the "Constitution of our Fathers," you are laughed at. FORTER, in a bold metaphor, spoke of the reckless who crushed the worm that never dies. It is so with the men who now constitute the rulers of this country. Appeal to them by all that is sacred; let the President in his several veto messages show them, in unanswerable arguments, that the Constitution, the organic law of the land,-devised slowly, carefully, after years of deliberation by the first minds and best men of that or any other age,is diametrically opposed, in letter as in spirit, to all their acts, to their very ideas of liberty as of legislation; his arguments are not called in question. No one takes the pains to refute them. They are laughed at; they are thrown by with derision. Appeal to the old, the venerable, the sacred ! they "tread on the worm that never dies!" The appeals

A majority of the Judges of the Supreme Court still recognize their obligations. They remember and party wrangling. The Supremo Court decides that several of the Acts of Congress, passed within the last few years, are unconstitutional,-at variance with the fundamental principles of the Government. One would think that such a decision should cause Congress, and the tumultuous millions at its back, to pause, and to consider that if the stage of the writings of our constitutional expounders, and who alone of all the officers of the Government enjoy a position that should be secure from the influence of the madness of the hour,is sixty-five cents per hundred fish. is now daily engaged in fomenting; and with meanness unparalleled, is goading on the Congressional fanatics to prosecute the impeachment of the President; and, we have no doubt, ere long will counsel his conviction and death sontence. Already, in discussing the impeachment we perceive it indulges in a satanic double entendre when using the word "decapitate."

The future before us is gloomy in the extreme. The question of impeachment looms up like a huge spectre, throwing its deadly shadow upon every industry and enterprise in the land. Stocks are falling, provisions are rising. Credit sinks. Confidence is falling both at home and abroad. Mon go about with a vague terror depicted on their brows, loth to look at the telegraphic column in the morning paper; afraid to meet some now wild and reckless scheme on the part of those greatest of iconoclasts, since the days of 1793. The subject is a painful one, and though we have touched only upon the merest outlines, we must leave it for the present.
